Chapter 1 by spacyb

Godega di Saint Urbano Vargas wasn't your everyday young, Italian man. He had a special ability that even he had trouble labeling. He could cut things all the way through with his fingertips and it would always be a clean cut with no blood. He found out through experimenting with his Guinea pig that he could cut off a limb and the limb would be fully operational. He then cut off its head and discovered that the Guinea pig's body could still move around. Godega could also reattach any body parts that he cut off with his powers and those that he cut off with more practical weapons, like a knife.
